The Small Business Authority Index for June 2011 Shows a Spike in SBA 7(a) Gross Loan Approvals

The SB Authority Index Shows The Small Business Economy Growing 1.17% from May 2011

NEW YORK, July 20, 2011 /PRNewswire/ -- Newtek Business Services, NASDAQ: NEWT, The Small Business Authority, announced the release of the SB Authority Index for June 2011 reaching 106.07 points. The SB Authority Index is up 1.17% from May 2011. Approved SBA loan volumes, the Russell microcap index and Retail Sales caused the increase in the index.

The other five components of the index are ADP national employment report, Newtek's proprietary merchant processing volume, estimated small business default loan rate, GLS default rate and the prime rate.

President and CEO, Barry Sloane said, "We continue to see mixed results from the small business economy. We also need to remind our audience that our index is not a final sales number and is made up of eight different economic factors that directly effect small businesses. In the month of June, SBA loan guaranty volume jumped from the prior year as we have steadied loan demand this year and in 2010 the SBA had small businesses waiting for greater subsidies available under the Obama Recovery plan. We have also observed greater retail sales growth this year versus last year. We continue to be concerned with the business climate but we welcome Washington's effort to reduce the federal deficit and uncertainty for small businesses and their future."
